From Booklist

In this entry in the Yours Truly, Lucy B. Parker series, Lucy's adjustment to her new life is increasingly complicated as she tries to maintain normalcy while developing her relationship with her famous soon-to-be stepsister, Laurel Moses. Lucy continues to solicit the advice of agony aunt Dr. Maude, via lengthy e-mails, to no avail. Left to her own devices, Lucy tries to navigate the oddities of L.A. (no one eats bread), the downside of Laurel's superstar life (tabloid stories), and her first crush, carried out under the glare of the paparazzi's spotlight. Fans will look forward to future installments. Grades 6-8. --Kara Dean

About the Author

Robin Palmer grew up in Massachusetts and New Jersey, and graduated from Boston University before she hit the road for Hollywood. Starting as an assistant in the television literary department of the William Morris Agency, she quickly moved up the ranks and spent the next decade as a literary agent, producer, and television network executive at Lifetime Television, where she developed over one hundred scripts and oversaw the production of over thirty of the cable network's original movies. In 2001, she remembered that she had originally intended to spend her life either as a writer or a toll booth collector (so she could indulge her penchant for spending her days alone reading), but as there are no toll roads in southern California, she decided to give the writing thing a try. Since then, she's written everything from screenplays to essays to a novel to a preschool guide. Although she's constantly threatening to move, she currently resides in New York City.
